Product Designs & Applications

Sliding doors can be made as multi panel doors, using a mixture of mirrors, coloured glass and panels.

A very attractive look can be produced with a door made, for example, with two panels in the same colour as the wardrobe, and a mirror or section of glass in the centre of the door.

Doors don't necessarily need to have panels - a mixture of frosted and plain mirrors also works well to produce a modern look.

Once again, the wardrobe can be built in any of our wide range of colours

Glass Doors are available with Clear, Frosted or Coloured Glass centre panels and each has it's own advantages, depending on the look that is required. All of them produce clean, modern lines, and a wardrobe that is bang up to date!

Clear Glass can be used to good effect with a voile or curtain on the inside of the door, to provide colour, texture and style. Besides looking good in it's own right, it also gives the opportunity to alter the colour and theme of the room by simply changing the curtain.

Panel doors can create both colour and contrast in a room. The doors themselves can be a simple, plain panel, or more decorative with designer bars across the front.

The wardrobe and doors are all available in any colour from our wide range of colours, from pale shades such as Maple.

Panels can be mixed with mirrors, too. A wardrobe can be built with a mirror door and a panel door, or for more doors a mixture of mirrors and panels.

Mirrors make any room seem more spacious, with light being reflected off the mirrors and around the room. The reflection of the room itself in the mirrors also gives an impression of more depth.

Bronze and rose coloured mirrors create a softer feel to a room, and generally set a more subdued theme. These often work well with a bronze or gold mirror door.

Frosted mirrors make for a modern appearance, retaining a bright look, but with a more subtle tone. These normally contrast well when mixed on a wardrobe frontage with straightforward mirror doors.
